41ST ANNUAL SNOW CONFERENCE
SNO - FOO AWARD
BARRY GOODISON

Dr. Barry Goodison was appointed editor of the Eastern Snow Conference in 1978. In those early years, Barry was a keen and expiring government snow researcher (see above). Barry applied this same enthusiasm to his new position as ESC editor and the conference proceedings were promptly edited and distributed to members shortly following each annual meeting.

However as time wore on and the well known demands and pressures of a civil service position increased, more demands were placed on Barry's precious time. Soon members from all over North America were asking the same question, "Where's last years ESC proceedings?"

It was alledged by some members that several elaborate cover-up schemes were designed by Dr. Goodison to defend the tardiness in proceedings distribution. One such questionable incident was described in great detail to the members present at the 41st annual meeting by Dr. Peter Adams. It involved a midnight raid on a local print shop where the original ESC manuscript was incinerated, once again resulting in undue delays!

In presenting the 1st annual Sno - Foo award to Barry Goodison this committee recognizes the selfless dedication with which Barry carried out his responsibilities as ESC editor during his term of office and we wish our late editor god speed in his further endeavours.
